AHDA – Newsletter Corona Virus Update

Update from DEFRA

Dear All,

You will all be very aware of the latest statement from Boris Johnson on the moves away from the severe lockdown that we have all been through for around eight weeks. This latest update does mainly refer to the new situation in England as Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland on taking a different course of action at present. The information that I am circulating still should be of interest to all AHDA members across the UK.

Please click on the links below for the latest Government information that AHDA has received through DEFRA;

Business Advice and Support

For AHDA members looking for business advice on current HR or other areas, all AHDA members can contact a 24/7 business support helpline through Croner. For the contact telephone number and policy number for Croner, please contact the AHDA office.

During these uncertain times it is important that we all do what we can to give help and encouragement to the animal health and welfare sector including the farming community and food chain about following the government advice. At the same time as key workers please make sure you do all you can to use disinfectant, social distancing at two metres, correct handling of animal health.
